Approved For Release 1999/09/16 : CIA-RDP70-00058R0002
STATINTL
[redacted]

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL FEBRUARY 5, 1962

JRM-70

(DULLES)

WALTHAM, MASS.--FORMER CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY DIRECTOR ALLEN DULLES BELIEVES V. M. MOLOTOV WILL SURVIVE--PHYSICALLY--HIS IDEOLOGICAL STRUGGLE WITH THE FOLLOWERS OF SOVIET PREMIER NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV.

DULLES SAID THAT MOLOTOV'S FUTURE IS STILL IN DOUBT BUT ADDED, "THEY DON'T LIQUIDATE PEOPLE ANY MORE BECAUSE THEY HOLD DIFFERENT VIEWS; THEY PUT THEM ON A NICE DACHA (VILLA) SOMEWHERE NEAR MOSCOW AND SEE THAT THEY'RE PRETTY WELL IGNORED."

DULLES SAID THAT KHRUSHCHEV STILL FEELS FORMER PREMIER JOSEPH V. STALIN IS A HERO TO THEM.

"THERE ARE CERTAIN PEOPLE AROUND, MOLOTOV, FOR EXAMPLE, AND OTHERS WHO STILL FUNDAMENTALLY BELIEVE IN SOME OF THE BASES OF THE STALINIST DOCTRINE," DULLES SAID.

STALIN IS "STILL A HERO" IN HIS NATIVE STATE OF GEORGIA, DULLES SAID, AND A NEW GENERATION OF STUDENTS IS "MORE AND MORE" AWARE OF THE REWRITING OF HISTORY.

-- DULLES

Approved For Release 1999/09/16 : CIA-RDP70-00058R000200100114-2